Hong Kong Convention and Exhibition Centre, Level 4

Fee: Free registration, limited to 100 participants

Who should attend: property managers or supervisors, academics, students, NGOs, government officials

The aim of the Workshop is to promote sustainable waste management in the property management sector.

Highlights:

Reducing waste generation is of high priority in the Government's waste management agenda since our available landfill space is going to run out in 4 to 8 years' time. Currently, household waste recovery and reuse in Hong Kong is about 35% which is well below that of the commercial and industrial sectors. How to encourage public participation in waste separation program to reduce waste generation and to increase waste recovery will be the most critical factor determining the success of our waste management strategy. For this reason, the property management will play a key role in taking up the challenge to introduce better waste management systems in their buildings. This Workshop is designed to provide the basic in waste management including waste management strategy, waste separation and collection, community engagement and education program, and on-site food waste treatment for property managers or relevant stakeholders.
